

Imagine having uninterrupted focus in any meaningful life arena you want.

Just think what you could accomplish...

www.attentionalleadership.com

801.358.8450

info@attentionalleadership.com

Helping every professional discover their personal best — every day.

FINDING YOUR FLOW

In the corporate arena, professionals have many demands on their time, attention and energy. This requires working smarter.

Increased competition, pressure, and stress mixed with other distractors, like social technologies, provide constant interruptions that get in the way of “Finding Your Flow” or getting into the “zone” in and out of the office, field or arena.

—————“—————
The inability to focus results in increased frustration, decreased learning, a poor self image, and low performance.
—————”—————

For many professionals, the power to find uninterrupted focus at work, relationships, and life is diminishing.

High performance requires commitment and focus. The inability to focus results in increased frustration, low performance, disengagement and a poor self-image.

Imagine performing at your very best—where skills and abilities match the tasks at hand; feeling absorbed and engaged; being able to produce your best results—on demand.

This type of focus isn’t just for athletes, meditation gurus, or naturally gifted performers. This type of focus and flow can be learned and implemented by anyone wanting to take their performance to the next level.

Introducing Finding Your Flow™, a program that gives each participant increased awareness, understanding, tools, and strategies to shut out the distractions, increase focus, and maximize performance.

After years of research, testing and real-world application, Dr. Bruce H. Jackson has developed the 1080-Degree Sweep™ – a comprehensive assessment that will uncover the many factors that both contribute to and inhibit peak performance and flow.

Finding Your Flow™ is a personal process. Using the 1080-Degree Sweep™ assessment in conjunction with the workshop tools will give each participant a personalized formula and plan to produce more focus, flow, and joy in work, relationships and life.

A program that gives each participant increased awareness, understanding, tools, and strategies to shut out the distractions, increase focus, and maximize performance.

BY INCREASING FLOW, PARTICIPANTS WILL:

Increase well-being and performance in high pressure environments

Bring clarity to their career, relationships, and life goals

Improve awareness of positive and negative influences on flow and productivity

Support on the job performance by focusing on what matters most

Tap inner-motivation to close performance gaps and excel

Grow their capacity to self-coach

Gain a life-long model for personal leadership development

“Participants will leave this workshop knowing the #1 thing they need to do to create better focus and flow in their lives right now. Once that #1 thing is mastered, they have a formula to discover what will lead them to greater flow and higher performance for the rest of their lives. This is the essence of personal leadership.”

– Dr. Bruce H. Jackson